Welcome, Brannon Paulk

Brannon Paulk

Originally from Birmingham, Alabama, Brannon began his career with Royal Cup Coffee after graduating from the University of Alabama. He spent five years in sales with the company, eventually moving to New Orleans, Louisiana. After that he took a sales position with Gordon Food Service and then Proctor U in Chicago. He loves working in sales because he likes to be a part of a plan that helps businesses grow and seeing that growth come to fruition.

"Brannon has a depth of sales experience with a focus on partnering with his customers," says Ben Pitts, Vice President - Sales and Marketing. "I am confident that Brannon will be a high impact player for Amerex."

The history and reputation of Amerex is one of the many things that drew Brannon to the position. "Amerex is the leading manufacturer of fire extinguishers," says Brannon. "And I want to be part of a company that leads the world in the product that they manufacture."

Brannon is happily married to his wife Elizabeth whom he met while working for Royal Cup Coffee in New Orleans. They now reside in Chicago. Brannon's favorite things about living in Chicago is the sports scene, having any sporting event at your fingertips, and also the city's food scene. Brannon is a big fan of Chicago's 7-8 months of cold weather versus the heat in his home state of Alabama.

Outside of work, one of Brannon's favorite hobbies is reading nonfiction books. He enjoys visiting his family in Alabama, and watching his 11-year-old nephew play football.
